MISSOURI
Missouri! Dear Old Varsity!

SHOW ME SOME

Mizzou Law faculty are recognized for achievement inside and outside the classroom. They are regularly honored for excellence in teaching with awards such as the Kemper Fellowship and the Gold Chalk Award. But their influence isn't limited to the classroom. They have been published in national academic journals, called upon by media outlets around the country, and have presented around the world on a variety of legal issues.

THING GREATER

Take your first steps at

LAW.MISSOURI.EDU

The law department formally opened in October 1872. Twenty-five law students started classes in Academic Hall.

After Academic Hall was destroyed by fire in 1892, the “Law Barn,” as it was called, opened in 1893. Due to increasing success, the school quickly outgrew these facilities. A new building, Tate Hall, was completed in 1927. It remained the school’s home for six decades. In 1988, John K. Hulston Hall was constructed, and the school became one of the most state-of-the-art law schools in the nation.

MORE THAN A JD.

Mizzou Law is the perfect place to discover your passion and explore where you want to go.

With four clinics, 10 dual degrees, and nine different certificates offered, the opportunity to build skills and launch your career is here.

No matter where you are and where you are going in your law journey, you will find a home at Mizzou Law.

LIFE AT MIZZOU LAW

Life inside and outside the classroom strengthens the character of each law student. Each year numerous events take place involving students, faculty, staff and alumni. These add to the collegial atmosphere where students can step back from their everyday studies, building lifetime friendships.

Study abroad, student organizations and advocacy competitions are just some of the many ways students enhance their studies at Mizzou Law. Through these experiences students increase their networking opportunities and explore career options. No matter your interests, you will be prepared to meet your goals.
